March 21 — German raiding submarine in the Baltic are the next targets of British. It was reported today that Germans disputed the other heavy exchange across the North Sea, many belittled a German that nine British ships and merchantmen sunk in an air attack on the Scottish coast.

It said only one ship had to be abandoned another Norwegian. A British steamer was hit by planes and anti-aircraft drove off ten German bombers at sea.

Over 30 men were feared lost. Danish ships the 2,000-ton and the 1,100-ton sank off the northeast Scotland yesterday. The cause of their sinking was not known. A lifeboat landed seven men early today.

Report Nine Ships Sunk
Official German news said nine ships sunk, 14,000 tons and two others 11,000 tons were damaged.

The agency acknowledged no German plane had failed to return.

The German raid was expected for the British bombardment of Syke Island Tuesday night and Wednesday morning—a raid as itself revenge for Saturday German bombing of the British naval base at Scapa Flow.

It was reported that a German bomber believed to be dropped white orange and green flares during the raid.

Intense activity of British coast defense forces last night led to the belief that German planes were flying.

British light planes were seen ranging far out to sea with patrols active along a wide area of coast.

The Syke raid in which British officials said great damage was done to the German submarine station was a spring tonic to the spirits of the whole British nation. The Germans themselves expressed relief at being permitted to cut loose at last.

The Exchange Telegraph agency reported 49 giant bombers had participated in the Syke raid 48 men returning safely.

Kingsley Wood air service detailed the Syke exploit to the house of commons yesterday but did not reveal a member advised him to keep in mind that the country hopes this will be a isolated instance.

Report on Syke Raid

Reports persisted that German submarine nests and ships in the land-locked Baltic would be probably objects of attack.

Grandson of Company's Founder To Take Over Duties April 1;

A. W. Newby Named Vice President and Board Chairman.

Announcement was made today that Edward J. Schroeter will become president and general manager of the Huber Mfg. Co. on April 1. Mr. Schroeter, whose home is now in Cleveland, is a former Marion man and a grandson of Edward Huber, founder of the Huber Co.

He will succeed A. W. Newby, who will become vice president and chairman of the board of directors. The only other change is the retirement of S. E. Barlow, former head of the company, as chairman of the board of directors.

Mr. Newby said today the company last fall had employed a national marketing organization, Barrington Associates of New York City to make a survey of the company's manufacturing and sales operations, and that as a result of the survey a number of changes were recommended to meet the keen competition in the farm machinery and road machinery fields. He said that after 10 years of guiding the company through depression years he did not feel physically able to undertake to direct the recommended changes and asked to be relieved of the office of president and general manager, and Mr. Barlow asked to be relieved from the chairmanship of the board.

New President Arrives

Mr. Schroeter, who arrived in Marion today to prepare to take over his new duties brings to his new position a background of industrial experience in several fields. After his studies in Marion schools and preparatory work in University school at Cleveland he attended Cornell university graduating in 1914 in mechanical engineering.

He was employed two years with the Marion Steam Shovel Co. where he learned the rudiments of machine care assembly and production control. Thus prepared he became a part of the original organization launching the Jordan Motor Car Co. of Cleveland handling material supply, routing and production later serving as assistant sales manager.

In 1923 he organized the Acoustic Engineering Co. of Cleveland which pioneered in the field of sound control in churches, auditoriums, offices and various other types of large interiors. The company also helped overcome interfering echoes in broadcasting rooms. This concern was sold in 1933 to the National Gypsum Co. of Buffalo.

Mr. Schroeter was elected to head a reorganization program for the Teacout Co. of Cleveland a large millwork and lumber concern. Effects of the depression on building and other factors had impaired the company to the point it was operating under Section 7B of the national recovery act. Within a year under Mr. Schroeter's direction the company was on its feet doing a thriving business in Cleveland and northern Ohio and at Buffalo where a branch is maintained. Mr. Schroeter is leaving the office of president and general manager of the Teacout Co. to take his new post here will retain an interest in the Cleveland concern.

Parents Live Here

Mr. Schroeter is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Schroeter of East Center street. His wife is the former Irene Edmondson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Edmondson. They have a family of two sons and four daughters. Their home is at 2324 Arlington road, Cleveland Heights. Although Mr. Schroeter plans to spend most of his time in Marion the family will continue to live in Cleveland Heights.

For the past year Mr. Schroeter has been a member of the Huber Mfg. Co. board of directors and has thus acquainted himself with the company's operations. He also is on the board of directors of the Western Foundry Co. of Chicago.

Congress To Probe Allies' Interest
in New U. S. 420-Mile-An-Hour Plane

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 21 — Keen interest in a seven-mile-a-minute American warplane may accelerate a showdown in the administration's policy.

Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, emphasized that the secret device—probably a supercharger—had not been released for export. On Tuesday President Roosevelt said military secrets which other nations could not duplicate would be kept confidential as long as possible.

The allies have shown an interest in acquiring numbers of the P-38 as an answer to Germany's newest and fastest two-motored fighter, a Messerschmitt 110, a less advanced model, which Nazis had scored heavily in repelling a British raid on Heligoland last December. Berlin officials claimed that 31 of 52 British bombers were shot down.

How far negotiations on the P-38 have progressed was not clear. Specific types were not mentioned when Arthur B. Parvin, head of the British-French purchasing mission, reported continuing discussions for the acquisition of a potential $1,000,000,000.

LAND LEASED

PHYSICIAN PROMISES QUINTUPLET

Work to start immediately on

17 Acre Tract on Edison Pike

Selection of a site for Marion county's civilian conservation corps camp was made yesterday when county commissioners conferred with Edna and Burkhardt of Columbus, a member of the district CCC staff.

The camp will be located on a 17-acre plot on Edison pike about two miles southeast of Marion. The land is part of the 230-acre Marion county home farm. It was leased to the CCC for one year, beginning yesterday, with an option for renewal after that period.

Immediate Start Planned

Work of preparing for the erection of the camp will begin immediately. Mr. Burkhardt reported removal of tree stumps and clearing of the ground will comprise the first task. Assuring an adequate water supply probably by drilling wells, and installation of sanitation units will follow.

The camp site is about one-fourth mile east of the junction of the Edison and Richland pikes. The Progressive granite hall formerly Shrock's school and the county yards are situated just west of the camp location. The selection was made after CCC officials viewed other portions of the county farm.

To Most Bartracks

After preliminary preparations are completed bartracks will be moved here. They are pre-fabricated buildings and can be erected in a short time. It is not known how many buildings will be required to house workers.

Representatives of the CCC will be located here in the near future at the office of Carl H. Tozer, county engineer, and Homer S. Porteus, county agricultural agent. They will begin planning the CCC work program and may be contacted through either of the local

"Minnie" Auto Racing Attracting Fans

By The Associated Press
LOUIS — There's much a big speedway's thrill in a minicar sport—racing 20-model automobiles almost a minute at the end of a is the equivalent of more than 100 miles an hour in a regular automobile.

Midget racers, held at the 50 feet of cord, are guided wide circle. Throttles open, whip around as fast as a trip on the open highway. Racing the tiny cars is the sport of a small, but enthusiastic, group of speed devotees, including grocery clerk, a dentist, two physicians and a shipping clerk. The streamlined models, for the most part designed and built by their owners, are constructed by watchmaker's precision. They are powered with one-fifth horsepower, gasoline-burning engines of the type used in small airplanes.

St. Louis speed record, set by Norman Goren, is 57.7 miles per hour. The national record, and the hobby is catching on from coast to coast, is said to be 119 miles per hour.

Cleveland Indians' Pre-Season Stock Soars

By GAYLE TALBOT
By The Associated Press

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 21—There is a popular baseball saying: "The Indians always win the pennant this time of year." Nevertheless, when three Cleveland baseball writers named McAvay, Cobblewick and Gibbons, each bigger than the other, agreed this visitor like money from home and demanded to be told that the Indians finish ahead of the Boston Red Sox in the coming American League race, they at least aroused a suspicion that something might be going on here among the royal palms.

It wasn't too difficult to discover what the boys were excited about. Though he at first attempted to laugh the matter off as childlike fancy on the part of his writing corps, Manager Oscar Vitt soon broke down and admitted that they probably were thinking about his new keyslone combination — Louis Boudreau at shortstop and Ray Mack at second base.

Came from Buffalo

This young pair joined the Indians from Buffalo last season and their performance was sensational. Inspired by their fielding, the Indians won 19 of their last 23 games to finish a fast closing third behind Boston.

"I guess the boys think that with Boudreau and Mack in there all the way we ought to beat the Red Sox this time," said Oscar. "I'll admit it looks like we've solved our biggest problem. Mack isn't much of a hitter, but he and Boudreau are such great fielders and so fast on double plays that I'm almost willing to overlook his hitting. Besides I'll have Oscar Grimes ready to step in for Mack if it develops that we need a little more punch."

Boudreau is out at present with a chipped ankle bone, while Grimes slowly is recovering from a recent knee operation, but Vitt expects both to be ready by the start of the campaign. Mack looks better in the field day after day, frequently making acrobatic stops that rival Joe Gordon of the Yankees as he gains confidence.

With Hal Trosky back on first and Ken Keltner at third, it looks as if the Indians finally might have an infield to rival either the Yankees or the Red Sox. They still lack the batting power of either of their principal rivals, but their pitching is better than Boston's.

Sound Outfield

The Indians possess a sound outfield trio in Ben Chapman, Jeff Heath and Roy Weatherly, all potential .300 hitters, with Beau Bell in reserve. They have one acceptable catcher now in Rollie Hemsley, who has been a reformed young man for nearly a year, and will have another as soon as Frankie Pytlak comes to terms.

As long as Bob Feller and Mel Harden keep their health, the Indians will get superb pitching a big part of the time. Feller, with light support and improved control, conceivably might reach the 30-victory mark this year. Johnny Allen, who formerly rounded out a formidable mound trio, hopes to make a comeback after an indifferent season.

The most promising "rookie" pitcher in camp is 31-year-old Al Smith, who drifted into the minors a couple of years ago after a long and fairly successful career in big time, principally with the Giants. Last year Smith developed a new pitch, something like Hubbell's screwball, and won 16 victories while losing only twice for Buffalo.

Oscar was asked if his club looked good enough to beat the Red Sox, then why mightn't it go right on and tumble the Yankees? "Now, now," interrupted the Indian pilot. "Let's take 'em one at a time. Let's wait and see how Ruffing goes this year."

French Munitions Czar Races Against Time To Prepare for Spring Campaign

PARIS — (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The "little man with the big brain" trotted into the ministry of munitions every dawn, racing against spring and the chance of a big western front offensive.

His hurried look comes from the fact that it costs $2,000 a minute to put a French infantry regiment into attack, and he is responsible for keeping France's munitions factories at the 24-hour-a-day pace for producing the gunpowder and shells that make up much of that $2,000.

It is the same hurried look with which he crammed an 18-month railroad construction job into three months for the allies' big push; and today Armament Minister Raoul Dautry, a dark little 50-year-old bundle of energy, is still rated as one of the best organizers on the scene.

Works Long Hours
He often puts in fourteen hours a day. He hires promptly and fires swiftly.

French leaders say he is getting results despite years of labor troubles, political bonfires which snuffed industrial output and the short time he has been at the jobs.

Mobilization jerked 5,000,000 men into uniform at the beginning. Thousands of "gunpowder women" stepped into the places of men who left munition factories. They carried on the mixing of French "pastry"—the batter that is gunpowder in the making.

Many of the men mobilized have returned to their benches, but the women have stayed on, and none have been added.

Places from steel furnaces light the horizon at night in France from a Dautry-organized plant. Thousands of laborers put in a 60-hour week.

Premier Daladier gave Dautry his big task in a hurried reshuffle shortly after the war began.

Big Chance in 1918
In the last war Dautry was in charge of one district of the French state railways and was promoted to take over the jobs of adapting the French network to the demands of the British army coming to France.

Next came a big chance. Foch wanted a strategic railway built to

THURSDAY MARCH 21 1940

Thanks to the Firemen

MARION'S fire department does an exceptionally good job of protecting lives and property as its regular assignment but does not stop there. It adds volunteer humanitarian and public welfare service now and then in its way of full measure. All of which contributes to the high regard which Marion has for the department.

The latest demonstration of this extra service is the movement started by Chief McFarland and his men to interest the public in helping a family of 14 driven from their home by fire and left almost destitute. Hardly had the department completed its work of extinguishing the blaze at the partly destroyed little home when Chief McFarland issued an appeal to the public for contributions of beds, furniture and clothing for the stricken family. Arrangements were made to make the Central Fire station headquarters for collection of the donations.

Work of this sort in addition to their regular duties is done by the city's firemen throughout the year. Frequently they answer summons for use of the department's inhalator in efforts to save lives and often they are successful sometimes spending hours in the battle to defeat death. They assist in preparing for the annual distribution of community Christmas gifts and take part in other public welfare activities. They ask for no praise in recognition of such service but they have it coming to them and we are glad to take this occasion for extending to them thanks and appreciation which we know expresses the sentiment of the entire community.

Old Agents for New Agencies

DECISION of the house labor committee to recommend a five man labor board to Congress, supplanting the present three man board shows which way the wind is blowing.

Official thought on the labor board issue is to resolve existing doubts and difficulties by juggling the board's personnel, letting the labor act stand as it is pending further bill.

The board is one of the 'new agencies of public power' referred to by President Roosevelt as being helpful in the right hands dangerous in the wrong hands. Tennessee Valley authority was another new agency.

Such instrumentalities unless they are to betray the faith placed in them by their creators and intended beneficiaries call for a new type of public servant. He must be free from pettiness capable of taking in the largest scope of the problems with which his streamlined agency is dealing.

It needs no arguing that the labor relations board as far as not been blessed with administrators who were a credit to the aspirations of those who bestowed on them probably more power than is safe for one small group of men to have.

Revised Version

THIS department, striving to make an interpretation that will hold water has examined all the things Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini might have said to each other at Brennero.

It has reached several conclusions:

1. That Hitler must have done all the talking and Mussolini all the listening because only Berlin seems to know what the conversation contained.

2. That things must be almost as bad as pessimists say they are when two men can throw the world into a sweat by getting their heads together.

3. That in the absence of positive information to the contrary this department still strives to make an interpretation that will hold water is going to play safe. It is going to assume that since no one knows what was said therefore nothing was said. It was one of those long embarrassing silences that sometimes fall between men who don't trust each other any further than they could throw Hermann Goering by one leg. Furthermore they didn't need to say anything. They knew the second guessers would say everything worth saying.

Confidential Note to Prodigies

NATIONAL Artist foundations refusal to include child prodigies in its financial aid program for musical geniuses is hard to swallow but swallow it like a good child and don't ask questions.

Perhaps 13 year old Julius Karchen of Chicago who says he's capable of matching piano concertos with any adult's is right. Robert Norman, Alexandroff foundation director who argues a child can't speak the language of music understandableness is wrong. But it doesn't make any difference.

If grownups had to admit a child could do things as well as they can do them, the world would be turned upside down. There'd be no incentive to keep on trying. The old saying would be gone out of living. Fathers and mothers would lose face with their offspring.

An occasional child prodigy is all right. It gives the old hands a chance to matter that the poor little darling is missing all the fun of being a normal child, which is the highest destiny conceivable by human beings who weren't prodigies.

News Behind the News

White House Hand Seen in Maneuvers
To Add Member to Labor Board.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The White House wrangled this afternoon with the out-of-jar committee to increase the national labor relations board by two members. Senator Wagner did the actual bulldogging to Mr. Roosevelt.

The compromise is not as deep as the trouble nor as wide as the issue but will settle the Democrats to propose if the A. F. of L. and others who want it shall have five men. New Deal on the board can be drawn into line.

The trick of the proposal is that the two additional members with William L. Lee can give the White House a majority of three. The present board rulers, J. Warren Madole and Edwin S. Smith would be squeezed down into a minority by the packing process. Madden's term expires next August and naturally he will not be re-appointed. Smith's tenacious hold on the office will terminate next January.

Thus all would be permitted to save the two minority members whom Mr. Roosevelt was considering, ousting Mr. Roosevelt who gave the board his present objectionable complexion and congress which passed the legislation.

Mr. Senator Bob Wagner father of the legislation put the administration's new viewpoint in A. L. R. C. classically when he said behind his hand: 'You can remain deaf dumb and blind only so long.'

Spring Buying

Government economists are scanning their statistics with magnifying glasses looking for signs of spring buying power up on which the immediate course of business is likely to turn. So far they have found little evidence of wholesale demand and consequently their guesses run on the pessimistic side. Industrial production just announced by the federal reserve board to be 104 for February will be down to 104 for March.

The consensus here predicts a bottom of 100 to 90 will be reached within 60 days. The top guess is probably best because foreign buying is coming immediately in several outstanding lines.

Scapa Flow

High diplomatic personages have flown back home with information that while Mussolini has been losing influence with Franco in Spain Hitler has been needed in rapidly. They tell this story.

General Franco had planned an elaborate parade and invited all ambassadors to appear at the reviewing stand one hour ahead of time—that is all except the German. He was to walk in just before the parade started and get the applause.

The Octogenarian French ambassador Marshal Petain saw no reason why he should get there so early. Disregarding instructions he appeared about 10 minutes before the parade started. The Franco claque seeing only that he was an ambassador and thinking he was the one they were supposed to applaud set up a great demonstration. It was still on when the German arrived at most unnoticed.

The German blockade gap on the Skagerrak will be relaxed as a result of the latest successful German air raid on Scapa Flow. The British slipped back into

How Congress Works

Only One Bill in 25 Finally Becomes a Law

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, March 21.—It is easier to get by with murder than it is to get a bill through congress.

According to the International Association of Police Chiefs if you commit a murder and the murderer is discovered you have from one chance in ten to one in four (depending on what city you're in) of getting away with it.

If you are in Washington and in congress you have about one chance in 25 of getting a bill written into the statute books as an honest-to-gospel law.

At a recent session of congress there were nearly 18,000 bills introduced. Jack Stinnett

Of these a few more than 700 got the President's John Hancock and went into the statutes to help or hinder you and me and Joe Doaks.

Considering that there have been 18 congresses each sitting for a couple of years that may seem like an infernal number of laws. It is. But consider that a vast number of these are private bills—measures which give some who the widow a life time pension—or provided federal aid to a small district's river systems—or did this and that for some individual or little group.

The Objectors

These bills are innumerable and a cope with them the house has an objectors committee composed of three Democrats and three Republicans. One objection from the objectors generally is enough to make a measure worthless than the paper it was written on.

In the Senate bills can be introduced only in the last two hours of its legislative day. The catch is that if business is such that the two full days of German industry to treat their foreign customers with particular politeness.

Senate introduced in the Senate are referred to one of the 37 standing committee by the vice president. The committee may refer it to a sub-committee. There hearings, readings, recommendations, majority and minority reports, the committee of the whole and the interim table wait for it to show up on the calendar (unless the steering committee decides that it should be a preference over everything else).

A lot of it goes to committee and the two houses debate it.

In the Senate bills are introduced by being read in the house.

Both Houses Debate It

We Still Think G. O. P. Best for Nomination Would Be J. D.
Rockefeller Jr., But . . .

By DAMON RUNYON

WE STILL say if the Republican party picks a candidate for president—one of the ablest men for the job Draft John D. Rockefeller Jr.

However presidential candidates are picked on that basis. They are picked basis of political maneuvering. That Rockefeller out. He might run if drafted but probably would not lift a pencil to get the nomination.

Any big business corporation in the world would most likely be glad to pay Mr. Rockefeller a salary of $2,000,000 per year and a piece of the job to get the benefit of his business sagacity. We are wise enough to think he might be a bargain at $5,000 per year running the affairs of the United States.

But under the circumstances Damon Runyon is no reason in harping on it. It is able that Mr. Rockefeller's name will be on the Republican convention delegates or ever brought up in the smoke filled room where presidential candidates are sometimes decided.

We never saw one of those rooms. We have only read about them.
I thought we would get to see one in 1932 if we trailed the master mind enough but do you know what happened crossed us up and used a telephone instead.

THE way the race for the Republican nomination is shaping up it might not be idea to get a smoke filled room in Paris. We suggest George Larnaze's hotel. He is comfortable and first class. Also no chairs that Herbert Hoover would enjoy.

We guarantee Mr. Hoover would be smoke filled room and have plenty to say the choice. Maybe he would have his lightning rod with him all fixed to run moment's notice. Another Republican whose presence we guarantee is Alf Landon.
Kansas, whose self elimination from the potential starters has given him new Republincans.

If Republicans were nominating for we would have a bet on Thomas E. Dewey.
He has been displaying a lot of what's around the house track call early foot. I stolen quite a lead on his rivals in the headlines and perhaps in promised gates.
Non admirers of Mr. Dewey while were too busy calling attention youth notice his speed are now that he would be a great asset to the in second place.

However the race is not a sprint. If the derby route and Senators Vandenberg
Taft are laying up there in striking dist
the leader with Frank Gannett Sen. J.
Gov. James and the rest of the field str behind them. Anything can happen in a horse or presidential.

Some Republicans we have talked with say they think a dark horse may and take the heat. However it's when you call for names. If we were we would light on Bruce Barton of New York.

He is the fellow who might pass his they became candidates.

Marion Girl Finds Flowers in Bloom Despite Weather

Yesterday was a real contrast to goodness spring for Ethel June Sideroff, 14, of 138 Poeme street, when she found tiny drops in bloom in her yard at her home. Finding this, she was afraid she had made a mistake because the plants really belonged to her since she planted them last fall. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. THEOLOGY STUDENT GIVES SERMON HERE

DeVer Walker Speaks at Forest Lawn Church

DeVer Walker, a member of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church who will be graduated in May from Western Theological Seminary at Pittsburgh, will speak at the church's preaching mission service Saturday night. It was young people's night.

The founding of the Christian church took place at Cieszkowski's, when Jesus said to Peter after his first confession, "Upon this rock I will build my church," Mr. Walker said.

The church cannot be wiped out because it is eternal. As long as the church holds fast to the Cross of Christ it can never be wiped out. The Cross belongs to us. We have the greatest gift to bestow which anyone would possibly give to the world—the Cross of Christ. Let us be faithful of our stewardship of the Cross.

Mrs. Marilyn Abbott sang "Tell the Fisher Story" and Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Hazel Davis sang "Alone."

Tonight at 7:30 Rev. J. A. Carrick, pastor, will speak on "The Offended Followers."

of us who have difficulty reading the numbers on our auto license tags could do so from Elmer Ullom, our dog warden. Every day police handed Mr. Ullom a dog license tag which had been found in the East Side and came to help them locate the dog so it could be returned. Mr. Ullom looked at the tag, thought a moment and the officers knew the breed and sex of the dog for which the tag had been issued and the name and address of the owner—all from memory.

The police, a little skeptical, checked it with the thousands of license tag numbers on file at the county auditor's office and discovered that Mr. Ullom was exactly right.

Easter Message

Addressed to Episcopalians though it is, Christians of all denominations should find inspiration in the message, "These War Days," written by the presiding bishop of the Episcopal church. It came to our desk with the Easter announcements and we're passing it on:

"Because the world needs so badly a demonstration of Christian loyalty from America, it is my sincere hope that every person affiliated with the Episcopal church will be in his parish church this Easter.

Italians Rushing Exposition of Empire's Might

NAPLES — (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—War or no war, Italians are going ahead with construction of an ambitious overseas colonial exposition designed to show Italy's colonial power from the days of the Caesars to Mussolini.

A force of 5,000 men is working day and night to complete the $7,500,000 exposition on a 3,500-acre site beside the Bay of Naples before its opening May 9.

The exposition, financed 10 per cent by the government and the rest privately, is bigger than any projected by Italy except the universal exposition scheduled for 1942 in Rome with many foreign nations participating.

The Rome exposition will be for all nations but this year's is mainly intended to enable Italians to appreciate the colonial greatness of their own country, said an official.

Pavilions, some of them permanent, are being erected to house exhibits from all Italian possessions—Ethiopia, Libya, Rhodes and many others, including the Italian concession in far off Tientsin.

One pavilion will show what Italian brain and brawn have contributed to developing non-Italian colonies. The Suez canal, which Italians helped dig, will figure in this exhibit to remind Italians of their government's claims to share in the vital seaway now under British-French control.

Entire African villages are being reconstructed to house colonial natives. Two scientific expeditions are in Africa now rounding up wild life for the zoological garden and the aquarium.

In addition there will be pavilions devoted to colonial art and history. Another feature will be a series of exhibits on the early maritime republics of Genoa, Venice, Pisa and Amalfi.

Quite by accident—to the annoyance of fair engineers in some cases—the exposition also will have some new excavations on view.

A series of antique Roman buildings and an aqueduct have been uncovered by workmen digging for foundations and pipelines.

An open air theater to seat 15,000 persons, a swimming pool, an indoor theater, fountains, restaurants, bars and an amusement park are included in the plans.

The exposition is designed to be reopened every three years.

TWO MORE GARAGE BURGLARIES LISTED

Ford and Oldsmobile Added to Tuesday Night Report.

Breakins at the Lautenslager Oldsmobile Inc. garage at 273 North Main street and the Ford Sales & Service Co. garage at 219 East Center street Tuesday night were reported to police yesterday. Police said that apparently the burglaries were staged by the same person or persons who also broke into the Danner Buick Co. garage on North Main street and the Gene Hill filling station on North Greenwood street the same night.

Ed H. Watters, president of the Ford agency, reported that between $13 and $15 was taken from a cash drawer in the parts department after entrance had been gained by breaking out a window at the rear of the building. A wood door panel in a door leading into the parts department was removed, officers investigating the burglary reported.

Apparently nothing was taken from the Lautenslager garage, company officials said. Police reported that entrance apparently was gained by breaking a window at the south side of the building. A desk in the office was pried open and ransacked.

The methods used in both these breakins corresponded to those in the other Tuesday night burglaries, officers pointed out. Loot from the Danner garage amounted to approximately $11 in money while approximately $10.50 in merchandise was taken from the Hill filling station.

Barkley made his tax prediction despite indications that the house would join the senate in voting for parity payments and other farm funds which President Roosevelt did not recommend. Some congressmen earlier had expressed concern that the increased appropriations might require additional taxes.

The parity payments, similar to those authorized for the current year, are designed to give farmers the same purchasing power which they had in 1939-44.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) spoke against the parity fund, saying that unless economy was effected all along the line, the nation would be plunged into an inflation which would skyrocket prices and hurl the poor more than the rich.

Democratic senators quizzed Taft sharply on his fiscal views. Senator Connally (D-Tex.) suggested the Oklahomans might want to save money on "clipped war earnings" and "some farmer with a hole in the seat of his pants."

The senate approved yesterday at the rate of six a minute—three dozen minor increases in the $922,800,000 farm measure. It refused to 27, however, to increase the $212,000,000 parity fund to $607,000,000, as suggested by Senator Lee (D-Okl.) and Bibb (D-Miss.).

Committee Stands Pat

The house labor committee refused to yield in its opposition to drastic revision of the Wagner act. Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) had sought another vote yesterday on a rejected proposal to create an entirely new five-man labor board, saying that in his absence his proxy had been voted against the proposal, contrary to his wishes.

The committee, however, voted 11 to 7 against reopening the question.

The senate approved the wire tapping inquiry after Senator Green (D-R.I.) said that wires of "public officials and responsible private citizens holding high positions" had been tampered with in Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Attorney General Jackson recently ordered the federal bureau of investigation to ban wire tapping, which he said had been used by it infrequently.

WOMEN SPEND MORE FOR HOSE THAN DRESSES

U. S. Labor Experts Get Low Down on Costs.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 21—The next time you see a pair of silk stockings go tripping down the street, ponder this, brother: Many a woman spends more on them than on dresses.

It has all been figured out by the labor department.

The average woman invests more than one-eighth of a $55 clothing budget at the stocking counter. To be exact, she spends $7.61 for hosiery. (That's a little more than 11 pairs at 60 cents each).

Shoes are the biggest item—$7.65. Dresses come third, a mere $6. The working girl spends a little more, especially if she is a clerical worker, the homebody much less.

The more male provides no such startling statistics. His big moment comes every two years, when he gets a new suit, price $24. Annually he spends $6 less for haberdashery, etc., than women do for their accessories.

All the figures were based on a 1934-36 survey, with the family income of those questioned averaging $1,524 a year.

TAX COLLECTIONS UP

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., March 21—Income tax collections in the southern Ohio internal revenue district for the first 20 days of March were reported today at $8,720,841.57, an increase of 51 per cent over last year's figure in the same period.

AKRON YOUTH GETS LIFE FOR SLAYING FATHER

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., March 21—James D. Hill Jr., 19-year-old Eagle Boy Scout and Y. M. C. A. leader, is under life sentence to the Ohio penitentiary for slaying his father.

Common Pleas Judge Oscar A. Hunsicker passed sentence after the youth's attorneys withdrew a plea of not guilty to first-degree murder and pleaded guilty to second-degree charges.

Only 11 jurors had been seated at the time of the surprise plea.

The state charged young Hill killed his father Dec. 22 and dumped the body on the banks of the Ohio canal near downtown Akron. The youth said a fatal quarrel started because his father was "mean" to his mother and other members of the family.

His Father's View

It is interesting to look back to a speech made by Rev. Minister Stanley's father in New York at a dinner of the Pilgrims of the United States in 1930.

"If I were in your place I would not think for a moment of getting into any entangling alliance or treaty. Keep out of it—keep out of it. There is no reason why you should not and thus make your influence felt more."

"You of the United States will have an ever-increasing responsibility—not to send troops, or to show your might, but to exercise your great influence for good and for peace."

Leap Before You Look

By Peggy O'More

YESTERDAY: Tomi gone into town for a night, as he had planned back to reality. Pierre is still at her prolonged stay in the island with Allen.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
The Whole Family

"I'm sorry," Pierre hesitated. "She said Bartell was pulling his third degree on you. Those are her words, 'pulling his third degree.' And then she explained. She said it looked as though you were going to win the farm."

"Pierre, snap out it and talk sense. What has a third degree to do with my success with the farm?"

"When ever Bartell sees he's doing a case, he turns his charm on some feminine opponent. He makes her want to lose, so he can win."

Tomi's hands gripped the edge of the bench. Last night she had thought just that. She hadn't cared about the farm, about success, only about Allen Bartell.

"Lily said from now on Allen would be dating you regularly so he could keep you away from your work; make you lose interest in it. Tomi, look at me. Do you think I'm a species of rat for telling you this?"

Tomi looked at Pierre without seeing him.

"Don't you understand? If anyone were to treat my wife that way, I'd have a right to forearm her, wouldn't I?"

Tomi's eyes were shining like two black diamonds. "Of course, Pierre, and you are French. I understand. We feel things differently. We react differently."

"And Tomi you will marry me after we've won the farm?"

Tomi looked down at him and again she nodded with understanding. "I think so, Pierre. I'm not sure now that I want to marry anyone. I mean, I don't want to think of marriage until this season is over. After that—"

"The waltz," he spoke with confidence. "Meanwhile, you will have nothing to do with Bartell!"

Tomi stood up. "That's where you are wrong, Pierre. I'm going to see as much of Bartell as I can. I'm going to stay so close to him I can watch his every move. No Pierre, I won't listen to you. I am not your fiancee yet. I'm free, and I want to be free. By the way, will you go to Sacramento for me this week? I haven't been able to sell the buyer for family! The Tolands. They've come to visit me!"

Dorothy Doughtery uttered a pious phrase, appropriate to the day, and sank into the nearest chair.

But Tomi raced down the stairs, out to the gate, and through the gate down the road.

"Aunt Hannah!" she caroled. "Dear, dear Aunt Hannah!"

The Queen Mary hat which rode high pompadour went sideways under Tomi's onslaught.

"Must you always leap?" demanded Miss Toland.

"Of course," laughed Tomi. "Oh, Agatha, Amanda, Parilla, May—hello. And Carrington, Austin, Major, Harold!" She screamed the last word, for Harold, May Toland-Carrington's nine-year-old son, called her to attention with a vicious pinch.

"I'm so happy," Tomi bubbled. She was. The farm was going to be hers, and now the family had forgiven her.

They proceeded towards the house, flaying her with remarks.

"You look like a picked chicken," condemned Great-aunt Hannah.

"Can't you afford to have your house painted?" Inquired Austin.

"And why must you live so far from transportation?" whined Agatha, limping.

"I don't think slippers like that appropriate for country roads," sniffed Parilla.

And Lily! What a fine wife she would make, divulging Allen's professional secrets to his opponents. Doty said their engagement had never been announced, so Tomi, wouldn't be violating any ethics if she gave that brassy-headed little blonde a long stretch of unhappy hours.

Pierre had driven the car to the spot nearest the veranda and was slowing his bags inside. Tomi opened the screen and leaned out, watching him, talking to him.

"I'll bring home that order," he assured her.

The car door slammed. He waved goodbye.

Tomi kneeled before the window and watched the car jog down the dirt road. Dear Pierre. Why couldn't Allen look after her interest like that?

And wasn't it a glorious day? Wild mustard like strips of pale sunlight, lined either side of the road. Pierre was slowing down. Oh, there was a group of people in the middle of the road. Probably neighboring farmers walking back from High Mass.

All but one had stepped off into the wild mustard. Pierre was forced into it himself. The one figure had refused to give way. On it came, the others falling behind like a little band following the Major-domo.

Amused, Tomi watched until she saw the leader was a woman, a tall, dominant figure. Little wisps of dust arose as her long skirts trailed behind her.

"Dotty!" Tomi's wild scream brought the housekeeper flying upstairs. "Dotty! Look! The whole family had thought the continent started at New York City and ended at Chicago. The girls hadn't been to New York since Captain Tom embarked for France. They had visited him at Garden City.

Tomi assigned them to rooms as best she could. She would bring their beds from the shed where she had had the extra ones stored. Then, while they toured house and grounds, she hurried to the kitchen to help the silent Dotty prepare dinner.

A high, shrill screen broke the Sabbath stillness. Tomi rushed to the front porch to see Old Abe fishing Harold out of the goldfish pond. He applied a sharp cuff to the boy's ear.

"That'll learn you to catch Tom's pets, you little heathen."

"Get off of this property," demanded the voice of Great-aunt Hannah and she stalked into view.

"Get off yourself," spat Abe.

"Who do you think you are, anyhow?"

"I—" proclaimed the woman "am Hannah Toland!"

"Well, I'm Old Abe," he proclaimed in return. "And I was here first."

Tomi sped to the rescue. She soothed Abe and soothed her aunt, then sent Harold in to don dry clothing.

"Sit down," ordered Great-aunt Hannah.

Tomi sat on the bench she had occupied earlier that morning. "I just want to tell you, I fear, bid you marrying Allen Bartell."

"That is all. Now I will go to my room. New stays," she explained.

Tomi wondered if she were going into hysterics. In a moment she was going to shriek with laughter. Desperately she controlled herself. "Yes, Aunt Hannah," she murmured.

"That is all. Now I will go to my room. New stays," she explained.

Tomi looked at her aunt and something akin to pity welled up. The poor old hussy. She was tired. Her eyes were bloodshot. She had probably absorbed every inch of scenery as long as there was daylight. Her skin was flabby with weariness, heavily lined.

Tomi guided her up to her own room. Helped her into a brown gauze robe, pulled the blinds and raced back to Doty in time to hear a wild squawking from the chicken yard, followed by a howl of rage.
